

Bristol Biomedical Research Centre

Qualitative Research Network: 2022 Symposium

Reflecting back and future directions

Tuesday 22nd March 10:00-12:00 (Zoom online event)

You are warmly invited to the fifth annual Bristol Biomedical Research Centre Qualitative Network event.

Join us for an online symposium about qualitative research in Bristol’s Biomedical Research Centre. We will be sharing our recent research and discussing funding opportunities for qualitative health research.

Time	Title	Speaker/s
09:45 - 10:00	Zoom opens for informal conversation and welcome. Please feel free to have your own coffee to hand.
10:00	Official start time.
10:00 - 10:10 (10 mins)	Welcome and introduction: taking stock and looking forward.	Rachael Goberman-Hill
10.10 - 10.55 (45 mins)	Examples from qualitative work in the Biomedical Research Centre over the past five years:	Chair: Sarah Sauchelli Toran Speakers:
	1. Stop saying ‘It’s nothing to worry about’: Reasserting LUTS self-help guidance for men.	Jess Wheeler
	2. Qualitative methods and evidence synthesis in the BRC Nutrition theme.	Aidan Searle
	3. Developing a novel intervention for improving sleep in total knee replacement patients: from conception to feasibility.	Katie Whale
	4. Surgical innovation: a qualitative study of patients’ views.	Jon Ives/Giles Birchley
	5. Exploring the potential use of Virtual Reality in treating Eating Disorders.	Helen Bould
10:55 - 11:10 (15 mins)	Break and chance to send in questions to the ‘Funding for qualitative research’ speakers.
11:10 - 11:50 (40 mins)	Funding for qualitative research: external opportunities.	Rachael Goberman-Hill Katrina Turner
11:50 - 12:00	Future plans, close and thank you.	Rachael Goberman-Hill