TAKING A 'SYSTEMS APPROACH' TO HOMELESSNESS IN BRISTOL	CITY CONVERSATIONS ON RACE EQUALITY	BRISTOL'S AMBITION FOR YOUNG PEOPLE? TACKLING INEQUALITIES IN POST-16 PROVISION	MAPPING THE CITY	COMMUNITIES AND THE ONE CITY APPROACH
CONFERENCE HALL ALIEEN EDWARDS Second Step RUTH MCALLISTER KEMP University of the West of England BEN PILLING University of Bristol GRAHAM PARKHURST University of the West of England COLIN TAYLOR University of Bristol GES ROSENBERG University of Bristol DOM WOOD 1625 Independent People This hands-on workshop will highlight the potential for a systems approach to address the complex challenge of homelessness and rough sleeping in Bristol. Attendees will explore the systemic causes of homelessness from a range of viewpoints, and examine how - as a collective - stakeholders could think about addressing some of these complexities, and highlight tangible solutions that could be put into action in Bristol. This session will introduce systems approaches and give attendees a number of practical examples for how such approaches have been applied elsewhere.	LIBRARY ROGER GRIFFITH Ujima Radio LATOYAH MCCALISTER Community Researcher TOM MORRIS Bristol Old Vic MIKE NORTON Bristol Post JOANNA BURCH BROWN Bristol City Council RICHARD STONE University of Bristol In January 2017, the Runnymede Trust published a report stating that Bristol was the most segregated core city in the UK. In the same year, The Sunday Times celebrated Bristol as the best place to live in the UK. In order to get Bristol to address these issues, which are of the past and present, Roger Griffith of Ujima Radio, partnered with two major institutions in the city - Bristol Old Vic and Bristol Post - to hold four City Conversations on race and racism in Bristol. At the final conversation a number of pledges were put forward as solutions. The purpose of this session is to share lessons from the conversations and identify further actions to reduce race inequality in the city.	IPO5 BOBBY DAVIDSON Bristol City Council JO ROSE University of Bristol HANNAH YOUNG Babbasa YASMIN MARSH Babbasa This interactive session will explore educational inequalities in the city with a particular focus on pathways into and through post-16 education and training. Speakers will outline the current Bristol post-16 educational landscape and agenda, and present contextual data to understand trajectories of young people from Level 2 into post-16 provision in Bristol. They will illustrate some of the core issues around progression through discussing a needs assessment with ethnically diverse young people. This will highlight key areas of inequality in progression through the education system and propose areas for discussion around solutions for effecting systemic change. The aim of the session is to develop a wider, more nuanced understanding around the issues underpinning the inequality in post-16 progression in Bristol, in order to inform the Bristol post-16 agenda.	IPO6 RICH HARRIS University of Bristol MARK WAKEFIELD Bristol City Council ANTONIA LAYARD University of Bristol SARA DAVIES University of Bristol JAMIE EVANS University of Bristol Bristol, like most cities, is a place with considerable disparities in opportunity and experience across geographical space. In this session researchers, policy-makers and citizens, will explore the use of use maps and spatial data to improve our understanding of such inequalities. The aim is to better understand the challenges our city faces and explore meaningful ways to address such spatial imbalances.	IPO9 JAMIE DARWEN University of the West of England PAUL HASSAN Locality BRENDAN TATE WISTREICH Up Our Street STEVE SAYERS Windmill Hill City Farm KATIE MCCLYMONT University of the West of England ZAKIYA MCKENZIE Up Our Street Bristol has a number of strong community anchor organisations, playing an important role in tackling inequality and boosting resilience in their communities. Through case studies, this session will explore collaborative approaches to building knowledge about who really needs what in our communities, and building services that are more responsive to local needs.
