

GOING SOLO

"It just wasn't working for us anymore"

"Still best friends"

We quizzed your favourite duo to find out all the gossip about why they split and the ongoing fight to become top of the charts as single pop artists.

"It's time to go our separate ways"

In July 2016 we heard the first chart topping song from 'Molly & Harry' who were the newest duet in the pop music industry. Now in June 2018, nearly 2 years on which has been filled with a constant rainbow of 'Top 10' songs, I am sat with Molly and Harry and I am about to exclusively reveal that they have decided to become solo artists.

So what actually happened? I wanted to find out all of the nitty gritty on what went down and if there was any gossip we could get our hands on, but it turns out Molly and Harry didn't have the dramatic break-up we were all thinking that happened when we saw Harry's twitter post:

It was clear from our first conversation at the recording studios of the label, Five Alive, that they are both still signed to, that they were finding it hard to create music which suited both of them and their brand of happy poppy songs. When I spoke to Molly she told me that; "sometimes you just need a change to be able to be great again and to find out what you really want". She suggested that their most recent songs haven't done as well as their first ones and both of them knew the creativity wasn't flowing anymore. This was a mutual decision and there was no dramatic heart breaks, apart from ours because we won't be able to hear songs from our all time favourite duet anymore.

When I asked Harry Young whether he was planning on staying best friends with Molly he said, "Molly has been the most loyal friend to me and I would do anything for her; if she was half-way across the world having a problem I would fly to wherever she was just to make sure she is okay". When he told me this I could see Molly smiling from ear to ear knowing that she has the greatest friend and supporter in the world. (I think it is safe to say we all want to be in a duet with Harry now).

I bet as you are reading this you are thinking, 'will we ever get anymore music from Molly & Harry as a duet again?' so I asked the two of them to see if they will ever reconcile. They told me that; 'we haven't really got any plans at the moment, we are just going to take each day as it comes to make our own music great again. We understand this has upset a number of fans and we hope we get the chance to work together again in the future'.

At the end of our meeting, just as Molly was due to start recording, she told me she has something extra she wanted to say to all of you; "sometimes in life when things aren't going right or as well as they used to go, best thing to do is take a step back or remove yourself from the situation."
