My self-Summary

I am in my final year of university in London and studying a degree in the creative arts. When I am not studying you can find me in The daily brew where I make tea and coffee all day. Other than that I like travelling the world and seeking new adventures.

What I'm Looking For

I am only looking for something casual, I do enjoy my freedom, however I would be open to something more serious provided the guy is right.

Where I see my self in 5 years

'Where ever the wind takes me'- Honestly I have not given it much thought, hopefully i'll be doing something within advertising however i'm a more in the moment person. Where ever I am though I hope theres some prosecco.

Why people are usually attracted to me

At a glance people are usually attracted to the confidence that I emit and my overly sarcastic nature. People are also impressed by my ability to pull a pointless conversation from no where.

What I do on a typical weekend

On a typical weekend I enjoy chilling with my friends with a glass of prosecco and enjoys listening to old school songs and having a bit of a dance.

3 things I could never do without

- Couldn't live without Prosecco
- Reading books
- Listening to edgy music
