Nursery News

Space is still dominating our role play and we are reading 'Aliens in Underpants Save the Earth' this has led to us exploring colour and pattern in designing pants!!

2. Although the weather has been cold we continue to enjoy outdoor play, with lots of co-operative games such as 'tig' and 'hide and seek'
3. We made our own 'Pizza planets' for snack and also decorated and hung up our Solar System.
4. We have continued to enjoy lots of model making so would appreciate any donations for our junk modeling this helps to develop our imagination and also our fine motor skills.
5. A big thank you to the parents who joined us for parent engagement week, remember you are very welcome in the nursery so speak to staff if you would like to pop in for a play.

First Minister's Reading Challenge/Book Week

We are still going strong. Eight more pupils were awarded certificates at Gather Round this Thursday. Today the librarian was in school signing up other pupils. The mobile library van will be coming round every second Monday at 1.15pm and everyone will get an opportunity to visit at some point. Also check out our twitter pages. We are being followed by some famous names. This week Dermot O'Leary, the presenter, responded to a tweet sent by a P3/4 parent.

Parental Engagement Week

Thank you to everyone for their support during the week. We hope you enjoyed all the different activities. We had lots of fun today dressed in pyjamas and having milk and cookies.

Christmas Fair

Don't forget, it is the Christmas Fair on Saturday 9th December. Doors open at 10am. The stalls are all located in the upper classrooms as well as in the dining hall. Our 'special visitor' will be appearing in his Christmas Grotto from 11.30am onwards. We are still looking for donations of good quality books and toys as well as nail varnish for the nail bar. We are looking for home baking too nearer the time.

We are looking for any parent helpers to help on the day with stalls and also on Friday 8th to help set up during the day.

Rosewell's Got Talent will start at 10.30am in the gym hall. If your child is competing we will give you an allocation of tickets to guarantee your seat. Other tickets will be available on the day. Rehearsals are underway and you will be certainly in for a treat.
